

The Diamond 57 Cowboy Boot Bag is the original design by Sue Roake of Gresham, Oregon. I created this unique bag when my husband had an accident and could no longer wear his boots. I thought what a shame to just have these hand crafted boots sitting in the closet when we've had such wonderful adventures traveling and showing our miniature horses! I was inspired to preserve those memories in a useful, creative and stylish way. Each boot has a tale to tell in where it's been and what it has endured! Some came from the easy life of the dance floor, others are hard worked cowhide straight from the ranch. Each purse is made from authentic, all leather, vintage cowboy boots. The handle is also made from working stock, all leather, embellished with silver, crystals and western buckles, some with horse bridle head stall or bits. Each bag is lined with leather and has pockets. Every bag is guaranteed workmanship, however, all are enhanced with it's own story to tell, from the scar from the barbed wire fence or possibly a scuff from the hard wood floors they once graced. Each purse is an original, branded, signed and numbered. In addition to the cowboy boot purses I create bags from saddle blankets, cowhide and woven western material, using horse tack, conchos, fringe and unique vintage and collectible trinkets for variety and customization. You'll also find joy in the recycle pendants made from horse bridles and turquoise. Truly eclectic yet classy cowgirl style.
