

As an artist, Sharon considers herself a visionary and expressionistic creator; realism is rarely her goal. For many years her favorite medium has been acrylic paint, but she enjoys the flexibility of “going with the flow”, introducing and combining new medium and textures in much of her work. Primitive drums have become a favored canvas, but she also enjoys painting on more traditional surfaces. Sharon is also a clay artist (hand-built), and creates beads, jewelry and 1-of-a-kind embellishments for her drums and other art from fired clay, leather and found objects.
